Regents Act on APPR, Receivership, AIS, and More

“This system has too many flaws in it,” stressed Regent Jackson before casting her vote of “no” on the approval of new APPR regulations at the September 16 Board of Regents (BOR) meeting. In the end, the new regulations (Section 3012-d) passed with ten Regents voting yes to approve the new regulations and six dissenters.

The vote was not without considerable debate, and overall most Regents agreed with Jackson’s comments that the principal and teacher evaluation system was indeed very flawed, even with the proposed amendments that will now go out for public comment. A number of Regents who voted in favor of the new regulations did so noting considerable trepidation over the possible loss of state funding for districts. Regent Tilles in particular, while voting yes on the regulations, also called for a vote of no confidence in the evaluation system – a process he termed “civil disobedience.” While the full board did not agree on a vote of no confidence, there was agreement that a statement or resolution will come from Commissioner MaryEllen Elia outlining concerns (“VAM should never have been used for teacher evaluations,” said Regent Collins) and a commitment to carefully review not only the APPR system, but the Common Core Standards and assessments as well. The developmental appropriateness of both the standards and assessments for the early grade levels was mentioned as a point of particular focus. Chancellor Tisch said that this review process would solicit considerable input from practitioners and parents, with online options for providing feedback.

Before the vote, Executive Deputy Commissioner Berlin outlined a few noteworthy modifications to the new Section 3012-d regulations. As a result of these modifications, the regulations will again go out for public comment and will be brought back to the BOR for permanent adoption in November. Those changes, which Berlin said are in response to public comment, include:

- Independent Evaluator Waiver:SED may grant an annual hardship waiver to the independent evaluator requirement to rural school districts (as defined by the commissioner in guidance) or single building school districts. Consideration for such a waiver will be based on the size and limited resources of the district and

Is This the End for No Child Left Behind?
From the National Association of Secondary School Principals

School leaders have been waiting more than seven years for Congress to reauthorize the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), currently known as No Child Left Behind, and it looks like the finish line may finally be in sight. Both the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate passed their respective reauthorization bills in July, which means President Obama could sign a new law as early as this fall. Before that can happen, though, education committee leaders from both chambers will meet in a conference committee to work out differences in the two proposals and present a final conference report for approval by Congress.

Both proposals aim to provide more flexibility to states and districts and end the punitive provisions in NCLB. They would eliminate adequate yearly progress (AYP) and the requirement for 100 percent proficiency; continue to require disaggregated subgroup data; remove the unworkable school turnaround models under the School Improvement Grants program and Race to the Top; and clarify the term “school leader” as the principal of an elementary, middle level, or high school. Unfortunately, the similarities between the two bills end there as Congress has had a boisterous debate about the federal role in education, and the house and senate have taken very different approaches to addressing this issue.

The house first began its debate on the Student Success Act (H.R. 5) in February, but after two days of votes on a slew of amendments it was pulled from the floor due to a...
In 2014 certain districts participated in online field tests. This was done as part of New York participating in the Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC). Both PARCC and SED seemed overly optimistic as to how quickly the state could transition to widespread online testing, and the 2014 field tests provided some of a wakeup call. There were a variety of technical issues encountered that one may reasonably assume would be magnified if the online field testing were more widespread, especially if the implementation of online testing was rushed. The Common Core Learning Standards and APPR implementation efforts (two different, but related changes) provided painful lessons in the difficulty of significant, sweeping changes to be implemented by all districts in an arbitrarily short timeframe. That was where PARCC and SED were heading in 2014 when SED wisely put the brakes on this particular transition. SED recently announced it is again seeking district volunteers to conduct online tests this spring, with the goal of districts having volunteers to conduct online tests in 2016-17. Making the transitionoptional exams in 2016-17. Making the transition optional will have to acclimate prior skills currently unneeded boarding and navigation to online online filing, license renewals… (online shopping, banking, education practices will have the requisite key- and navigation skills currently unneeded a pencil and paper test environment. Based on comments from Commission- ioner Elia, it appears SED is sensitive to the need for a gradual implementation. I hope I am not being too optimistic. Assuming a continued sensitivity to district, staff, and student capacity, the move toward online assessments makes sense to me. It not only appears inevitable, it also reflects technological changes, which in many instances have already occurred around us. It’s an increasingly electronic world (online shopping, banking, event ticketing, court filings, license renewals… the list goes on and on) that young people navigate as a matter of course. I suspect it won’t be long before online assessments will be the preferred method of test administra- tion, but hope it will be a long while before it is a mandated method of test administration. This evolution will require a variety of adjustments to practice and attitude, but that too is already underway. SED has partnered with NYSCE to provide a variety of Google Camps for Admin- istrators around the state (see www.saanys.org for more information) and they have been very popular among our members. We have begun formal Google docs training for SAANYS staff, and I was pleased (and enormously relieved) to find out how intuitive it can be, and SAANYS is also currently developing a webinar regarding the preparation of students for the assessment tools of the future. Remember, it was only a few years ago when we all had faxes, desktops, and landlines. Many of us still today consider such things museum worthy. I believe a variety of education practices continue to evolve to reflect the evolution of society around us. While we might occasionally need a nudge, we should know from other expe- riences that a shove is likely to be counter-produc- tive.
its inability to find an independent evaluator within a reasonable proximity.

Apologies Process for Educators: In light of concerns from the field,SED has also decided to examine the state growth model. In the interim, Subparts 30-2 and 30-3 have been amended to prescribe an appeals process for a teacher or principal to challenge their state-provided growth score, in certain limited circumstances.

Details and examples on the appeals process, and other “technical” changes to the regulations were outlined by Berlin in her presentation slides found at: http://www.regents.nysed.gov/common/regents/files/meetings/APPR_0.pdf.

Assessments

Chancellor Tisch addressed issues surrounding the grades 3-8 state assessments. She stressed, as did the commissioner later in the day, that in addition to the change of providers from Pearson to Questar, other changes are underway as well, in addition to the review mentioned previously. The length of both the ELA and math exams will be shortened as of this year so they are “not unduly long”; the new contract with Questar will “double” the number of teachers involved in test development; and next year will see the full release of test changes are underway, in addition to the change of providers from Pearson to Questar, other changes are underway as well, in addition to the review mentioned previously. The length of both the ELA and math exams will be shortened as of this year so they are “not unduly long”; the new contract with Questar will “double” the number of teachers involved in test development; and next year will see the full release of test changes.

Receivership

There was considerable debate over the first year of receivership under the district superintendent. Are the superintendents being given direction, guidance? Are the receivership districts by providing effective models and other assistance to receivership schools and their superintendents. The emergency regulations on school receivership must again go out for public comment due to two changes that were implemented based on the last release for public comment. The definition of a Persistently Struggling School found in section 100.19(a)(2) has been revised to parallel the language of Education Law §211-4(1)(b).

In order to conform to Education Law §211-4(3), section 100.19(5)(iii) has been revised to provide that collective bargaining shall be completed (instead of commenced) no later than 30 days following receipt of a written request from the school receiver.

AIS

Emergency action extending the flexibility to school districts in the provision of Academic Intervention Services through the 2015-16 school year, as was done in the two previous school years, was approved, with dissenting votes from Regents Rosa, Jackson, and Collins, all of whom expressed concern about cutting AIS services to needy students based on a district’s fiscal ability to provide the services. The emergency rule will take effect on September 17, 2015, for a 90-day period. It is anticipated that the proposed amendment will be presented for adoption as a permanent rule at the December Regents meeting. Read the full memo here: http://www.regents.nysed.gov/common/regents/files/meetings/Seg/p2015si/9si15p12a1.pdf

Other

Graduation and diploma options for special education students were discussed, with an overall conclusion that further, more meaningful graduation options and credentials need to be explored. The chancellor and commissioner also discussed the explanation of extending school time and year and other extended uses for school buildings, noting that related budgetary factors exist. The BOR also formally adopted regulations requiring continued on page 8

National Core Art Standards: All Administrators Are Experts
Leslie Buckholz, James and Marc Grove NYSSMA and NYSCAME

The new National Core Arts Standards (NCAS) and Graduation Pathways are here, and administrators are clamoring for help on how to best support the needs of their teachers and students. This session will provide the resources to help align curriculum, develop integrated approaches, and ensure a smooth transition for a high-quality arts program.

Making Teacher Evaluations More Efficient
Judy Gallagher, Educational Voteds and Dr. Kathleen Affigne, Millbrook CSD

Data teams are challenged to find efficient ways to manage complex APPR processes and components. This presentation will demonstrate district use of StaffTrac to integrate multiple tasks in one comprehensive system. Using this system, independent and peer observers have a seamless way to follow district negotiated processes and principals can manage observations and SDLs effectively for potential professional and instructional benefit.

An Innovative Model to Build Teacher Leaders
Maureen Peterson and Steven Garrath, Lewiston CSD

This presentation will exemplify the work of the Central New York Leadership Development Program (CNLYDP), guiding the participants through the key elements of this innovative program that uses district administrators to lead the professional development of teacher leaders. Coursework, cohort projects, technology, and instructional strategies will be used to demonstrate the CNLYDP framework.

Cultivating Teachers’ Professional Growth with the EdCamp Model
Janet Warden and Lauren Givens, Wyoming CSD

The goal of this session is to share how the EdCamp model can become the format where teachers get inspired by their colleagues and work in varied classroom settings.

Revitalizing Collaborative Data Teams
Karen Karp and Thomas Jett, Measurement, Inc.

Successful data teams are those that strengthen a school’s capacity to improve student learning. This session promises to spark new life into your data team by demonstrating how to infuse inquiry, focused analysis, and reflective dialogue into a collaborative process. Learn how to choose and use protocols to facilitate the review of data at all levels and support instructional decision making.

Session 2  Monday, October 19  10:00 am - 11:15 am

Why Should We Care About Adult Ed?
Laurie Burrows and Joseph Campbell, Adult Literacy and Corrections Education

What’s new in adult education and how does the educational achievement of adults influence the learning outcomes of K-12 students? Two seasoned adult educators will discuss opportunities for Out of School Youth and Adult Learners and how they work with K-12 educators to increase educational outcomes.

Bringing Collaborative Leadership to Life
In Your School
Paul Farwell, Arlington CSD

Gain the tools of collaboration when teachers and administrators are engaged in their own office or classroom. Today, leaders and teachers need to partner to multiply learning. This interactive workshop will explore the most current ideas about how to collaboratively lead professional development that multiplies learning for all.

How Data Driven Instruction Can Rejuvenate Teachers: See it to Believe it!
Amy Piper, Fredonia CSD

See how one school in western NY used data to rejuvenate teachers, prioritize instruction, and improve teacher morale. Fredonia took a look at data to bring teachers together on instruction, and bring creativity to the ELA and math modules, with increased trust, improved parent communication, and better student outcomes.

One District’s Story: How Blended Learning is Changing Instruction at Cuba Rushford
Joy Morris and Chris Cappelletti, Cuba Rushford CSD

This workshop will describe the ways students in the Cuba Rushford School District are using blended learning to increase their learning and achievement. Participants will understand how Moodle, iTunes U, and other strategies are working in varied classroom settings.

How to Work Less, Produce More, and Still Get the Job Done in a Sensible School Week
Kari Throop, Pittsford CSD, Kelly McHugh, Whitehall CSD, and The Break Through Coach

What if you could work sensible hours each week and have your student results soar? We call that a breakthrough. With the ability to reduce your workload by 20 hours per week and multiply your time in classrooms by 50 percent, this session can provide a way to increase student achievement and have a healthy personal life!

Session 3  Monday, October 19  11:30 am - 12:45 pm

What Every NYS Administrator Needs to Know About Financial Planning
Greg Ronneburger, AA4

What will my NYS pension benefit look like? When should I start to collect Social Security? What should I be doing with my 403(b)? As a NYS school administrator, the answers to these questions are paramount in building a successful plan for yourself. This session will put you on the right path to answers to these important questions.

School Districts and Their Ability to Impose “Dress Codes” on Their Employees

The issue of whether a district may impose a dress code on its employees has been a question that has been raised for several districts this past summer. It is important that you understand your rights and are aware of what a district can and cannot impose on you. If you are in a bargaining unit, a dress code may not be unilaterally imposed on you by your school district. The requirement of a specific dress code for faculty is a mandatory subject of collective bargaining. However, there are some exceptions to this. According to PERB, a school district may require its staff to wear photo identification cards without first negotiating the issue with the union when the intent of such identification cards relate to the employer’s mission to promote safety and accountability. Another exception to dress code being a mandatory subject of collective bargaining — school boards may “within reason . . . regulate the speech of teachers in the classroom for legitimate pedagogical reasons.” In one case, the district banned wearing political campaign buttons and pins while on duty because they claimed its actions were triggered by concerns that “displays of political partisanship in the schools” were inconsistent with its educational mission. The district successfully argued that the ban was necessary to avoid improperly influencing students and impinging on their “rights . . . to learn in an environment free of partisan political influence.” In order to limit political statements in a dress code, an employer must do so equally — a dress code cannot state that employees are not allowed to wear shirts supporting a specific candidate but then permit shirts supporting a different political candidate. However, there is a way around that insofar as an employer cannot prohibit employees from wearing union related paraphernalia.

The requirement of a specific dress code for faculty is a mandatory subject of collective bargaining. If employees are not within a bargaining unit, according to New York State Department of Labor, an employer may pose a dress code that prohibits the wearing of certain items of clothing, visible tattoos, or piercings. However, if it is illegal for an employer to set different dress codes based on gender. There are also exceptions for religious items of clothing. The rationale behind allowing the employer to set dress code restrictions is that employers have a right to set a certain professional tone through the appearance of its employees. For example, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, which rules upon federal cases within New York State, has found that a dress code that requires a teacher to wear a neck tie is not only appropriate, but also does not infringe upon first amendment rights to free expression or the right to privacy.

If your district is attempting to impose a dress code on your unit or you have any questions, please contact SAANYS and we would be happy to assist.

The Prudential Spirit of Community Awards have been given to more than 115,000 middle and high school students across the country. Now in its 21st year, these awards, sponsored by the Prudential Financial, Inc. in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), honor outstanding community service by students in grades 5 through 12.

Students can apply at spirit.prudential.com or at www.nassp.org/spirit before November 3, 2015. Local honorees will be selected in early November and will receive certificates of achievement and the President’s Volunteer Service Award. The top two candidates from each state and the District of Columbia will be named as state honorees on February 10, 2015. Each honoree will receive $1,000 awards, silver medallions, and a trip to Washington, D.C. for four days of recognition events from April 30 - May 3, 2016.

Ten of the 102 state honorees will then be named as America’s top youth volunteers and will receive $5,000, gold medallions, crystal trophies for their nominating schools or organizations, and a trip to the 2016 Prudential Spirit of Community Awards Celebration in Washington, D.C. in May 2016.

Prudential has always been there for members who need advice or assistance from legal counsel on job-related matters. Now, SAANYS has partnered with the law firm of Feldman, Kramer and Monaco to help you with your legal questions and assistance.

$85 annually provides a simple will power of attorney, health care proxy, living will, and unlimited advice via telephone. Enrollment will also receive certificates good for two free hour-long office consultations with a local referral attorney. For services beyond this package, discounted rates apply.

Contact Feldman, Kramer and Monaco, the law firm that administers the plan for SAANYS members, at 1-800-832-5182.

Be prepared to present your membership ID.

Contract Settlements

NOTICE: Please send copies of your unit’s settlements in the event that SAANYS did not negotiate the contract. This information is important and is helpful to fellow SAANYS members.

Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake Administrators Association, Region 6

The Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake Administrators Association has completed negotiation of a three-year agreement with the Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake Central School District to cover the period from July 1, 2015 through June 30, 2018. Salaries will increase within ranges each year from 1.75 percent to 3 percent, depending on the administrator’s salary within the range. The agreement provides for district contribution to a 403b for each administrator each year of the agreement and a health insurance buy-out of $2,500 to $500 if both participants are district employees. The 403b contribution for unused sick days at retirement will increase by $15 each day (to $75) in addition to a flat amount increase of $1,000 (to $12,500). The earned doctorate entitlement will increase to $1,250. Unused vacation days each year will be added to sick day accumulation. Negotiators Dr. Tim Brunson, Colleen Wolff, Tim Sinnenberg, Dan LeClaire, and John Antoski were assisted by SAANYS Labor Relations Specialist Jennie Pennington.

Saranac Lake Administrators Association, Region 7

The Saranac Lake Administrators Association has completed a negotiated agreement with the Saranac Lake Central School District covering the period from July 1, 2015 through June 30, 2018. The agreement provides for salary increases of $2,500 in 2015-2016, $2,800 in 2016-2017, and $2,800 in 2017-2018 for each member. Members will contribute 8 percent toward health insurance in 2015-2016, and 9 percent in 2016-2017 and in 2017-18. The member contribution amount will increase to 10 percent on the last day of the agreement. The health insurance buy-out amount will increase to $2,500 annually. Members who have accumulated at least 100 sick days may be compensated for up to 20 unused days each year at $350 per day, not to exceed $7,000 each year. Funds provided for professional development may be used to pay SAANYS dues. Negotiators Bruce VanWeelden and Trish Kenyon for the Saranac Lake Administrators Association were assisted by SAANYS Labor Relations Specialist Jennie Pennington.

lack of votes. Fast forward five months later, and with new more controversial and conservative amendments ruled in order, the bill passed in a 218-213 vote on July 8. While there were some good provisions in H.R. 5, NASSP and our colleagues at the American Federation of School Administrators (AFAA) and the National Association of Elementary School Principals (NAESP) opposed the bill because we felt it had no real substance. In our letter to House Education and the Workforce Committee Chairman John Kline (R-MN), we expressed concern about the authorization levels for Title I; a proposal to make Title I portable; the lack of mandatory funding for professional development; and the lack of additional resources for middle and high schools, literacy, and education technology.

Due to the House bill, which had no democratic support, the senate successfully passed a bipartisan bill, the Every Child Achieves Act (S. 1177), on July 16. The bill includes a lot of great provisions for principals, including a new section on school leader recruitment and support programs based on a bill that NASSP championed with Sen. Al Franken (D-MN) and Rep. Susan Davis (D-CA). Under Title II, states would be allowed to reserve up to 3 percent of funds for principals and other school leaders, and districts could use funds for residency, induction, and mentoring programs designed to improve school leadership. S. 1177 also included the text of the Literacy Education for All, Results for the Nation (LEARN) Act, which NASSP helped write as a member of Advocates for Literacy. The bill also includes a new authorization for the Innovative Technology Expands Children’s Horizons (I-TECH) program to support school-wide and district-wide approaches for using technology to inform instruction, support teacher collaboration, and personalize learning. S. 1177 also includes some good provisions concerning early education in middle level and high schools, although we would like to see stronger language in these areas.

NASSP, in collaboration with AFAA and NAESP, sent a letter to congressional leaders outlining our priorities for the final conference report and will be conducting joint advocacy activities throughout the month of October. While the finish line is in sight, we have to keep the pressure on Congress and President Obama to finish this work before the end of the 114th Congress. ■

Dimensions of an Educational Data Assessment and Management System

Sponsor Opinion piece by Scott B. Crowder, CEO

Educational Vistas Inc.

This is the time that districts must look seriously at institutionalizing a comprehensive assessment data management system with the ability to create, print, and administer tests on paper, as well as use them securely online! This system needs to not only link to whatever student management system (SMS) the district has, but also integrate program information on students from any other database that may be required. These points represent a prerequisite or starting point in the eventual selection of a particular product and vendor. Other vital considerations are that this system be graphic-al, user-friendly, and “non-threatening” to teachers. Such a solution must easily handle all NYS assessment data along with any and all publisher/locally developed assessment data. The product must have the ability to use item-level student responses that are reflected against a “live” answer key – all in real time to calculate scores and levels. It must link items to the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) and provide details of knowledge (DOK) codes for use in reporting. Those reports, charts, graphs, and export files need to be powerful/informa-tive drivers of professional learning/development (P&D) throughout the school year. This in-process access to information will also display “proof-of-goodness” of the delivery of your district curriculum. The solution offers you the ability to make decisions on what to keep, what to enhance, what to abandon, and what must be added to the instructional process to guarantee student success.

An emerging requirement of any such system is the fea-ture of assessment creation across academic areas and at all grade levels. An internal “item bank” is necessary to facilitate the grouping of selected items into assessments that then may be instantly printed and followed by pre-drilled answer sheets that match the courses, sections, and home rooms selected to take this assessment. If taken on paper, the software needs to allow for the scanning of the answer sheets and optically character read (OCR) the sheets and post to the data to the system automatically. For online assessments, it must be able to select who will take that test and when it will be available. Also, it should provide for internal protocol (IP) restric-tions for security. ■
