Andrew Marotta is an active high school principal, SAANYS colleague, writer, blogger, and presenter. His book, The Principal: Surviving and Thriving, is a true playbook with over a hundred points of realistic wisdom on everything from forging key relationships and taking the heat, to getting the good word out about your school, and much much more. Learn how to be a better leader with ideas such as, “Have people make appointments to see you. You are not an emergency room ... honor and trust your AP ... don’t just be inside your school, be INTO your school...” School leaders at any point in their careers will come away with ideas, enthusiasm, and strategies for success.

Don’t miss this three-part online series with Andrew that will feature engaging conversation on the issues that truly resonate with school leaders like you. Interested participants can purchase the book, The Principal: Surviving and Thriving through Amazon at <https://amzn.to/2IRHjyt>.
